

The Absurdity of Leftism's Willful Ignorance

Cheering for Hamas is an Indicator of Academic Gangrene (2 Timothy 2:17)

For the reason that both academic officials at our most prestigious law schools and the students seated under them, embrace a nazified agenda by approving of atrocities against Israeli families on October 7, 2023,¹ the “Free Gaza!” posters many marched under (turning them into “useful idiots”) heightens the urgency to expose such minds to the light of purging clarity. Their naivety entails both moral and rational aspects; the first of which is evident to all of us who rely on the convicting power of morality² in our consciences, while the latter betrays their gullibility because, in actuality, Hamas would target every last one of them for death.³ Yet this silliness is easily exposed by the following body of facts that can be known with full conviction to be “the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.”⁴

1. Israelites have inhabited their present location in the Holy Land for the last about 3,500 years.⁵
2. In 136 CE Rome banished Israel (IS) from Jerusalem and out of spite renamed Judea, Palestine.⁶
3. Arabs only began settling in the Holy Land after the founding of the religion of Islam in 622 CE.⁷
4. After the close of WW 2, it was not Israel's decision, but the United Nations' Balfour Declaration (UNBD) to create both of the independent homelands of Israel and Palestine.⁸
5. The Holocaust happened in part with the encouragement of Muslim leaders to see Jews killed.⁹
6. On numerous occasions Egypt, Syria, and Jordan simultaneously declared war on Israel. Israel prevailed in every battle. Indeed insofar as IS could ensure its safety, in contrast to every other nation, they gave the spoils they rightfully won (land, oil, etc.) back to the avengers.¹⁰
7. In “Black September” of 1970, Palestinians living as refugees in Jordan under the independent fist of the Palestinian Liberation Organization (PLO) turned against their hosts by seeking to overthrow the Jordanian government. Thousands of Palestinians killed each other in the clash.¹¹
8. In 2005 Israel “handed over the keys” to Palestinians to fully govern Gaza for themselves.¹²
9. While Israel agrees to cooperate with a Palestinian state, it is the firm goal of Hamas to utterly annihilate Israel.¹³ The discovered tunnels packed with armaments is physical proof that it is so.
10. That Hamas hides behind civilians as shields during conflict¹⁴ proves both that they don't value their own children, and that the mounting Palestinian casualties are the fault of Hamas alone.

It is not our government that compels students to embrace fascism. Our 1st Amendment says, “Congress shall make no law... prohibiting the free exercise...of; or abridging the freedom of speech.”

There is an “elephant in our room” in regard to the most critical question of all time, “What is wrong with our world?” Although many options are suggested (poverty, ignorance, prejudice, etc.), the most urgent, consequential, and only tenable one, is ignored.

“We punish [people] for the very fact of being in ignorance if [they] seem responsible for their own ignorance. Hence the fine for offenses committed by drunks (since they can decide not to get drunk) and it is this that causes his ignorance. There is punishment too when [people] are in ignorance of a point of law that should be known and is not difficult to know...The same is true...when [they] appear to be in ignorance through carelessness; for not being in ignorance is equally within their power [since] they can decide to take care” (boldface and ellipses mine).

The author of this quotation also labels such dishonest people “ignoramus[es].” It may surprise you to know that these reflections are sourced not from a “right-wing bigot,” but came from history’s most noted authority on rationality, Aristotle.¹⁵ Interestingly, St. Paul may have been acquainted with Aristotle’s¹⁶ essay since in Romans 1:18-32 Paul likewise connected ignoring truth with becoming a fool.

If Romans 1:18f has any bearing on the Bible’s warning of a final judgment, I strongly suspect, though I can’t prove, that the ploy of evading displeasing facts will be the leading contributing cause of why people receive a “guilty” verdict before God.¹⁷ Romans 1:18 to 8:39 lays out the most extended exposition of the Christian message (both law and good news) in the Bible. It may surprise readers to know that the very first sin Paul there referenced (1:18f.) concerns neither sexual lust, nor profaning God’s name, nor committing murder; but to the ruse of shutting out truth; both those that specifically support belief in God, and also truth in general (1:20).¹⁸ Much ignorance abounds over how the Bible defines the “unforgivable sin.” Hence I urge you to read Jesus’ words in Matt. 12:31. He defines it as persistently resisting evidence that we need in order to, in trust, yield our life to Jesus. Repentance (meta/-noia) indeed calls people to an openness of mind through a compelling encounter with truth. So, Biblical repentance is not an emotional charger but instead, in actuality, a mind-transformer.

I am not naïvely imagining that Leftists fret over prospects of the judgment of God. Obviously, they are driven to embrace science to the exclusion of “revelation.” Even so, their fidelity to science obligates them to other imperatives including, rationality, Plato’s dictum to “follow the truth where it leads,”¹⁹ and empirically, to only approach conclusions by way of firstly scrutinizing their hypothesis against the entire body of relevant evidence, and then evaluate the other competing views in order to determine which hypothesis is the strongest one. In any case President Biden’s maxim, “follow the science,” forbids all propensity to dismiss distasteful facts out-of-hand. These imperatives ought to elevate the awareness of us all that we all fall short of every target that we seek to hit! (Rom. 3:23). It is indeed this inclination that heightens the need for diligence in our seeking truth and abhorring falsity.

John Ellis, both Professor at U.C. Santa Cruz and also college-level academic credentialing specialist across our nation, has sharpened my thinking about this matter by highlighting the critical distinction between two disparate modes of “education.” These include classical inquiry (CI) on the one hand (opposing views are acknowledged, discussed, and exhaustively debated), and political activism (PA) on the other (the sole goal being to channel students to, by contrast, uncritically swallow a given political view).²⁰ Ellis further states that the PA tactic cannot be reconciled with the didactic strategies of CI. The reason is that the two have profoundly opposing purposes. Leftists commonly seek to discredit traditional interpretations of history on the allegation that they amount to nothing more than defensive coverups of actual corruption. Nevertheless that accusation can cut both ways. By what presumptions should Leftists' views be trusted to offer a more honest account of history? After all, it is classical inquiry alone, in contrast to political activism, that scrutinizes the entire array (negative and positive) of evidence that is relevant to whatever question is on the table.

For so-called "academics" and wanna-be "scholars" (SCAWbS) to willfully align with Hamas, effectively demands a naïve repudiation of everything academics and scholars down through time (until now) have always stood for, including scientific methodology (SM), historical analytical reflection (HAR), intellectual curiosity (IC), and commitment to rational truth (CRT). This is not an exaggeration! Firstly SM draws sharp distinctions between empirical facts (physical data that can be tested and measured) on the one hand and subjective thoughts and perceptions on the other. In addition, its investigations demand scrutinizing it against contradictory should its hypotheses²¹ possibly be false. Secondly (HAR) at the outset gathers evidential data with the potential goal of framing it into a plausibly true account, as opposed to prejudicially forcing a dubious view onto the masses (Marxist materialism). Christian historians likewise are obligated to appeal to trustworthy data to reconstruct a tentative portrait. Thirdly, belief from the Bible that "God created the heavens and the earth" (Genesis 1:1) 500 years ago gave birth to the disciplined study nature that we know as "science."²² Tragically however, fourthly natural curiosity (IC) about the world as it is, fourthly in our day being overtaken by the desire to satisfy one's lusts.²³ In the challenges entailed in our engaging with truth, several aspects are commonly overlooked including a sense of obligation both to obey its authority in the manner of Plato,²⁴ and to use its insights in service to humanity as opposed to manipulating its fruits for self-serving purposes.

In light of the ten examples I listed above on p. 1, SCAWbS insist (by logical inference) against the overwhelming consensus of historians, that Muslims preceded the Jews in settling in the Holy Land (pts. 1-3). Secondly, in futile denial of the United Nations Balfour Declaration, the SCAWbS identify with the nonsensical charge by Hamas that Israel stole its location as a national refuge for Jewish people (pt. 4). Thirdly, like Hamas, SCAWbS maintain their views by means of ignoring distasteful established historical facts (pts. 5,6). Fourthly, the "Free-Gaza" placard that SCAWbS parade perpetuates the lie that Gaza was in shambles when Palestinians moved in, when the opposite is true²⁵ (pt. 8). Fifthly, SCAWbS bewilderingly imagine that Hamas (despite the latter's own explicit demands to the contrary) are people of good will (pts. 9,10). Notice then that every claim that Hamas and SCAWbS share is utterly false.

There can be no Shangri la at the end of any corridor flowing from a cesspool fed by egotistical bedlam. The reason is that seeking justice in the opposition of truth amounts to only pretense. If we fail to concede that "hating the light of truth" (John 3:19) is the primary "elephant" of our day; there is no conceptual means for a utopia of any kind to sprout into reality. The only conceivable way for peace to progress, demands our full conviction that truth is the only means to liberty (John 8:58) and justice.
