

The Big Takeaway From Leftism's Propensity to Take Away the Right's Voice

The answer is that Leftist's are intellectual cowards. Since I don't intend to reinvent the wheel, I won't take the time to restate what the previous posts in my blogsite already address on this matter. I encourage you to look through my other articles going back as far as Mother's Day weekend of 2020 especially, at my blogsite, www.offensivechristianity.blogspot.com. There simply cannot be any excuse for Google, Facebook, Twitter, Amazon, Bill Gates, the "Alphabet" broadcast networks, and so-called university<sup>1</sup> institutions to suppress opposing points of view or inconvenient facts. Their fortunes in financial wealthy simply cannot hide their impoverished "intellects" and the propaganda they spew. They at least have the minimal level of comprehension to grasp that their views cannot withstand rational scrutiny. For that reason they censor opposing points of view out of fear of getting caught with their pants down. That, I repeat, exposes Leftists as the cowards they are.

<sup>1</sup> The word "university" combines the two concepts of "unity" and "diversity" as an indication that such academic institutions OUGHT TO have as their goal to seek reconciliation (unity) with respect to both differing fields of study and opposing points of view (diversity).
